

Upon reviewing the dictionary pages containing the various usage of the words 'who', 'what', 'when', 'where', 'why', 'how', and 'whose', I have concluded the following:

- 1) who? - tuweine - comparison
- 2) one who - Kure - used in several instances
- 3) what? ya^hneh - in comparing the various usages I found that this was used in one form or other in most examples.
- 4) when? tabi, tanibi - most common when... matut^h - in ^{almost} all examples - some
- 5) where? - taige - most common
- 6) why? - tane^hneh - most commonly used
- 7) ~~how? - tane'~~
~~how... how long, how tall, how deep, etc... - most common~~ ~~time~~
- 7) how? - tine; for how much, how many, ^{Also as in} "how" are you?
how... tane'; for how long, how tall, how deep, etc...
- 8) whose? ta'ike - most common whose... ka'ise - from breaking down the sentence it is used in - this is the only word I could not translate with this information. However, I am not sure.
